

FAN FLOW SENSOR FOR PROTON EXCHANGE MEMBRANE
ELECTROLYSIS CELL

ABSTRACT

A fan flow sensor for a gas generating proton exchange member electrolysis cell includes a switching device and a sail disposed in communication with the switching device. The sail is pivotally mounted and movable in response to an airflow from a fan. The sail is further configured to actuate the switching device in response to the airflow from the fan.